

Rural House Solar Power Generation Scam

What is a solar energy scam?

The scams vary, but here's the gist: someone claiming to be with the government or your utility company promises big savings on your utility bills from solar energy or other home improvements designed to increase energy efficiency. If you agree to the scammer's offer, it could cost you tens of thousands of dollars.

Are free solar panels a scam?

Know that "free" or "no cost" solar panel offers are scams. The federal government does not install solar systems in homes for free. If you're considering whether solar energy is right for you, check out the Department of Energy's guide for homeowners and learn more. Or check out the Department of Treasury's guidance on clean energy.

Is misinformation turning rural landowners unfairly against renewables?

But misinformation spread by groups like Citizens for Responsible Solar is turning rural landowners unfairly against renewables, says Skyler Zunk, an Interior Department official under President Donald Trump and chief executive of Energy Right, a conservative-leaning nonprofit that supports solar projects that preserve ecosystems.

Could a solar plant power a 25,000 home in Page County?

An energy company offered to lease Houser's property in rural Page County to build a solar plant that could power about 25,000 homes. It was a good offer, Houser says. More money than he could make growing hay and selling cattle. "The idea of being able to keep the land as one parcel and not have it split up was very attractive," Houser says.

What are energy scams?

Energy scams involve people pretending to be energy companies or regulators to get your money or personal information. These scammers may pretend to be your energy company, say they're from Ofgem or even from Energy Saving Trust to try and gain your trust.

Are Green Homes Grant emails a scam?

Police Scotland warned residents on Twitter that any emails or texts they receive about the Green Homes Grant are scams. This isn't the first time we've seen scammers target energy efficiency schemes. Many appeared around the Green Deal scheme, which also helped homeowners to finance energy-saving measures. So it's worth being careful.
